

UPDATE 3

This letter is to explain what's happening currently with the delayed classes. ...

Georgina, my wife, passed away from lung cancer on Saturday 12th September, and the funeral was on Saturday 3rd October, 2020 at Rosslyn Hill Chapel in Hampstead.

Many of her knew her quite well, and if you'd like the link to the recorded funeral it's here... otherwise, ignore it...

I'm now in post-funeral mode – a new experience for me. It seems to involve a fair amount of admin, a large degree of feeling very flat, and a great deal of feeling like a boat without an anchor.

I will be restarting the classes... to a certain extent my own sanity depends upon that, as it always has done, I just don't know when, but I suspect that it will be after half term. Whether I start with the same number of classes that I'd planned before all this happened, I don't know – I might I'll have to build up to a full timetable slowly.

I'll update this occasionally. To find this letter, you've clicked on 'Click here for update 3'. If there is a further update, I'll change the wording (e.g. 'Click here for updated 4').

James.
